

China OEM Medical Compression Socks features precise graduated compression to assist in moving accumulated lymphatic fluid, effectively reducing swelling in limbs caused by obesity, lymphatic disorders, or post-surgery.

Enhances Blood Circulation & Helps Prevent Deep Vein Thrombosis (DVT):

Utilizes wider, more elastic fabrics and specialized construction techniques to ensure effective containment and comfortable fit on larger or severely swollen legs, resisting rolling down or slipping.
Made from abrasion-resistant, pill-resistant medical-grade materials for extended lifespan, withstanding the pressures associated with larger body sizes.

Features a wide top cuff for easier donning/doffing; compatible with donning aids (e.g., talc, frames/slippers) to overcome challenges for users with obesity or limited mobility.

JiXingFeng Custom Medical Compression Socks Manufacturer -Specifically engineered to meet the unique compression therapy needs and comfort requirements arising from body size or pathological conditions in these populations.

By effectively reducing swelling and discomfort, it helps users participate more easily in daily activities and social interactions, enhancing overall quality of life.
